

Delicious grilled fish tacos, loaded fajita nachos, juicy Cuban sandwiches; the nation's stadium food has come a long way from hot dogs and chips. This year NFL stadiums are going local, sourcing food from neighborhood providers and sticking to flavors that pay homage to the their city's food roots. So, whether you're rooting for your favorite team at your home stadium or hitting the road for an away game, there's something delicious to eat, especially if you're looking for a dish with a Latin twist. We scoured the stadiums for the best Latin influenced dishes and found classic street tacos, creative sandwiches, and decadent chips and fries.

Carne Asada Torta, Levi's Stadium

Home of the San Francisco 49ers, Levi's Stadium's Tortas Stands in sections 108, 124, and 307 is the place to head to for the stadium's best Latin dish. They stand dishes up carnitas tortas, pulled chicken tortas, vegan nopales tortas, chips and salsa, and nachos. But for the ultimate torta and Latin food at the stadium go for the carne asada with sliced beef skirt steak, pinto beans, queso fresco, jalapeno peppers, and avocado.

A close-up photograph of two chicken tacos served on a white rectangular plate. The tacos are filled with shredded chicken, topped with shredded yellow cheese, green herbs, and bright pink pickled onions. To the left of the plate is a small black bowl containing green salsa, and to the right is a small black bowl containing red salsa. In the background, there are several tortilla chips, some plain and some with a dark purple or blue hue, and a lime wedge. A glass of beer is partially visible on the far left.

Famous Fish Tacos, Qualcomm Stadium

It's no wonder that with its location near Mexico, San Diego's Qualcomm Stadium would have a plethora of Latin-influenced stadium food. There are chips and salsa, asada fries and tortas but it's the Famous Fish Tacos that sets the food at the home of the Chargers apart. Grilled mahi mahi, citrus slaw, Mexican crema, diced onions, and cilantro on a warm corn tortilla with fresh cut lime. Get it at Diego's North of the Border.

Nacho Waffle Fries, Superdome

There are nachos and there are waffle fries and then there are New Orleans Superdome's nacho waffle fries. Go for the veggie version of waffle fries drizzled with sour cream, chives, pepper, and cheese or try the roast beef version, both offer easy game-day munching and can be found at concession stands. And the Superdome's other favorite Latin dishes (the fajita bar, Cuban sandwiches, and arroz con pollo) are found in the suites on a rotating basis.
