Oh My Loch Ness

Wilderness Scotland Tours

Spotting the Loch Ness Monster requires a pair of binoculars and some luck. Actually, luck used to come in handy for any tourist trying to get around Scotland without a car. But not anymore. Wilderness Scotland, a member of Leave No Trace Outdoors and winner of the Best Green Tour Operator Award, books trips around the Scottish countryside using only train, ferry and your feet as transportation. That way, you can visit Nessie or go shopping in Edinburgh without increasing your carbon footprint. The company also offsets 110 percent of their emissions with a donation to Climate Care. So travel easy knowing your visit won't contribute to the making of any more alien sea creatures.
